

Harmonize with your soulmate

By Coach Colleen Brady, The True Love Coach

When you use the Total True Love system you are harmonizing with yourself, with your future soulmate, and with your future life together. For those of you who are right-brain people, it's about increasing your vibration to resonate with where you want to be when you find your true love. For you left-brain people, it's defining visual goals that you can logically progress towards. This system is flexible, fun and facilitates your finding true love.

Here's how the Total True Love system works.

1. First, you listen to the Total True Love song which leads you to three generic metaphors that resonate with that deep down part of you that is the genuine you. One metaphor for what your true love is gonna be like when you find him or her. One for what you are gonna be like for that special person. One for what, as a couple, the two of you are gonna be like.
2. Next you just listen, repeatedly, and begin to harmonize with those three metaphors. Subconsciously you will be developing your personalized impression of that realistic metaphor. What you are doing is imprinting that genuine you on those generic metaphors, making them your own.
3. Then, the rest is fun and easy. You simply do what you resonate with. Be your impressionistic self today and everyday. For some of you that will mean going hiking, for some dancing, for some taking a cooking class, for some going to book readings. You will attract someone who resonates with your genuine you and your 'impressionistic' true love metaphors.
4. This is the person you want; the person who together with you will harmonize both your worlds. Dissonance and discord are warning signs; listen to your heart, not your hormones or your fears or the secondhand learning you got from your parents, your culture, maybe even your church. Remember, you are a wonderful person who is very capable of defining what true love means to you. Trust your inner voice. You have the infrastructure of your three impressionistic metaphors. If the other person doesn't fit, or it just doesn't feel right, have a fun date, but don't get married. Always remember, your true love is looking for you too. You don't have to settle.

Your impressionistic metaphors are yours and yours alone. Each one is describable and indescribable all at the same time. The metaphors you create using this incredible system are yours and yours alone, so don't be surprised if you tell someone your metaphor and they look at you funny. Your metaphors are indescribable because of the meaning you impart to them. Your generic metaphors may be identical, but your impressionistic metaphors will hold very different and personal value and meaning for each of you. Respecting yourself and your friend allows each of you to be yourself in your friendship, your relationship.

Once you discover the impressionistic painter within, you will never see your life the same again.
